

How Is The Market of Garlic This Year?

Recently, the retail price of Yunnan garlic has risen to 6 yuan per jin. As for why the price of garlic is so high, in fact, because fresh garlic doesn't come in the market, Yunnan garlic is a step ahead, naturally occupying a favorable factor. According to the previous China Garlic Price laws, it is expected that the price will fall back to 4-5 yuan in half a month and 2-3 yuan in one month.

However, this year's retail garlic is higher than the retail price of 4-5 yuan in 2019. In fact, this has a certain impact on the current special situation. After all, garlic can be sterilized very well. This naturally increases the market's demand for garlic. Many people will deliberately buy garlic for consumption. This will also stimulate domestic demand for garlic, which will make its price stronger.

May to June of each year is the concentrated harvest time of garlic. As for the market this year, it is expected that it will not be worse than 2019, and it should be more than 2 yuan. After all, the export volume of garlic in China is also increasing, and the amount of garlic abroad has been in short supply, so this situation has promoted the good market of garlic.

In fact, the export volume has increased as early as 2018, and more in 2019. It is expected that there will be an export advantage in 2020, which will allow garlic farmers to increase their income. Coupled with more domestic demand than ever, even if the garlic production this year is higher, the market will not be too bad.