

Huailai: Purple Garlic

The fertile land of Xibali Town, Huailai County, Hebei Province has convenient transportation and a long history of garlic planting. Among them, garlic planting area is 8,000 mu. Purple garlic is a specialty of Xibali Town. It has a long history of cultivation and is well known. Purple garlic has a large garlic head, few petals, clear meat, and spicy juice. It is not only an indispensable condiment for families and restaurants, but also has special medical value. Chinese garlic suppliers provide reasonable China garlic price and high quality garlic for consumers all over the world. Eating garlic scientifically helps us keep healthy.

In the White County, purple garlic is grown in a mixed planting method, Cultivation of purple-skinned garlic or corn alone cannot make full use of the land. The cross-planting of corn and purple-skin garlic not only maximizes the use of land, but also improves the economic benefits per mu. In order to facilitate drying and storage, purple garlic is usually braided into beautiful braids. The garlic seedlings and the garlic are braided together, about 30 heads into a braid. Using this method to store garlic is not only easy to transport, but also the garlic in the garlic braid is not easy to lose moisture.

In the past years, the purple garlic in Xibali Town was not only well-known in Beijing, Zhangjiakou, Inner Mongolia and other places, but also transported by Hong Kong businessmen to Japan, Canada and the United States, and was favored by foreign customers. Due to the epidemic situation this year, foreign merchants were unable to enter. In the face of this situation, the party committee and government of Xibali Town swiftly acted to combine the online and offline methods to make the slow-moving problem smoothly transition and achieve significant efficiency gains. Garlic sales are also getting better day by day, and people's income does not decrease but increases, which has won unanimous praise from the masses.